Our Five Levels of Service and there cost implications

Level One: the Project

The creation phase and the maintenance phase

Each new project has a creation phase, and a maintenance phase. Each phase can be packaged together or operated separately on a pay as you go tariff, which would be charged on an hourly basis. See section 4.

What is a Project?

We define a new project, as the creation of a new website or the re-design of an outdated website and/or a re-structure of associated components such as domain names, hosting and content.

- The standard fee for this is charged at a per project basis or client requirement, which will depend of the level of features built into the new project.
- Typical features may include the number of website pages to be built, would the new website include a staff or client login area, a content management system such as a database, taking a booking or selling a product online;

“Typical features of a new website”

All domains sold within a package are either a .co.uk or .org.uk domain, which are subject to UK domain governance and availability.

- All domains sold within a package is alive as long as the package it is included with is alive. If the package is at an end; the service level agreement is at an end. The package will need to be renewed before service can be resumed to a domain and hosting.

LEVEL TWO:

WEBSITE MAINTENANCE

When website maintenance is exceeded for a particular month

Website maintenance is bundled within the service level of a package, it is limited to FOUR hours work per month, when this threshold is exceeded, any work carried out to a website or affected components requiring work within the associated package is charged at the higher rate of £10.44 per hour.

What is Website Maintenance?

We define this as; small changes, general maintenance, bug fixing and updates made to an existing website.

- The standard fee for this is charged at an hourly rate;
- Website maintenance is typically bundled within the service level agreement of a package chosen by you the client;
 - o A package has a life span of 12 months from its start date to its end and is then renewed;
 - o The difference between a project and a package is; the project is associated with the work to be done on the website from planning stage to implementation stage, whereas the package is associated with the service level agreement (i.e. what are your responsibilities as the client, what are our responsibilities as the design agency, how much will the project cost and how long the project will last before it is required to be renewed.
 - o When website maintenance is bundled within the service level agreement of a package it is limited to FOUR hours work per month.
